It has been suggested, and the idea is a good one, that the Montpelier Military band be secured to give a series of band concerts in Barre summer evenings this season. The Montpelier band has many Barre players in it and Barre is more or less directly interested in it. It is an excellent band and a number of open air concerts would prove a great attraction. To see if the public shares in the belief of the Times, we invite subscriptions for such a series of concerts, and all who are interested are requested to send in their names and the amount they are ready to give for the purpose.

Quite a commotion was caused on Main street this morning by J. J. Bolster and one of his men marching up towards city hall with Luke Gallagher, a ten-year-old lad, between them, who, it was claimed, had been caught pilfering flowers from Bolster's lawn. He may have deserved punishment but the sight of two big men lugging one small boy up street was too much for the general public and Gallagher won the instant sympathy of all he passed. There was soon a war of words and finally the boy was released.

The Boston Herald began on Sunday last the publication of "The Filigree Ball," by Anna Katherine Green, the author of "The Leavenworth Case." It is a picturesque and romantic story of deep mystery and one which will interest readers everywhere. "The Letters from a Son to His Self-Made Father" were contributed as were the humorous contributions of Simon Ford and Roy McCardell. McCluskey made his bow to Boston Herald readers, and at once made an impression. This array of talent in story and humor will continue in the Sunday Herald of June 14 and together with the great variety of new matter the forthcoming issue will take another step in the advance movement now under way. Never in the history of this great paper has there been shown the progressive spirit which now dominates it, and readers who are overlooking The Sunday Herald are playing traitor with their best interests. It is a paper which should be in every home. It always leads, and never imitates.
